

What People are Saying....

The Veteran who stopped by after opening his bobbysvalentines bag and was clutching the homemade Valentine's card from a schoolchild to his chest and smiling said he was 'hanging this on his refrigerator.'

or

The young Veteran who decided to go sign up to become a VA Hospital volunteer after receiving his bobbysvalentines bag and speaking with us a bit.....

or

The young 1st grader, whose family was financially struggling, yet managed to bring in a small bag of candy to go along with the homemade Valentine for the Veterans and was positively beaming that she could be part of this....

or

The school custodians and other employees who donated monies to help buy candies to go along with the schoolchildren's Valentines cards....

or

The volunteer group who heard about bobbysvalentines from a news article and wanted to send cards for the Veterans —but time was short this year, so decided to participate next year and instead, since they were 'inspired,' brought their homemade Valentines to the nursing home down the street....'paying it forward'

or

The homebound veteran who was visited by a volunteer friend who brought him a bobbysvalentines bag, and reading the card from the child with tears in his eyes said, 'How did that little girl know that was just what I needed to hear today.'

or

The veteran who upon receiving a bobbysvalentines bag at the veterans lounge at the airport, felt compelled to contact the school where the child who wrote his card attended so he could speak to all the kids on the P.A. at school about what a wonderful thing they were doing in creating these beautiful cards and writing such moving sentiments to the veterans.